

SAVE YOUR LIFE

In India the number of road casualties are increasing year on year.

Last year 146133 people lost their lives in the country highways.

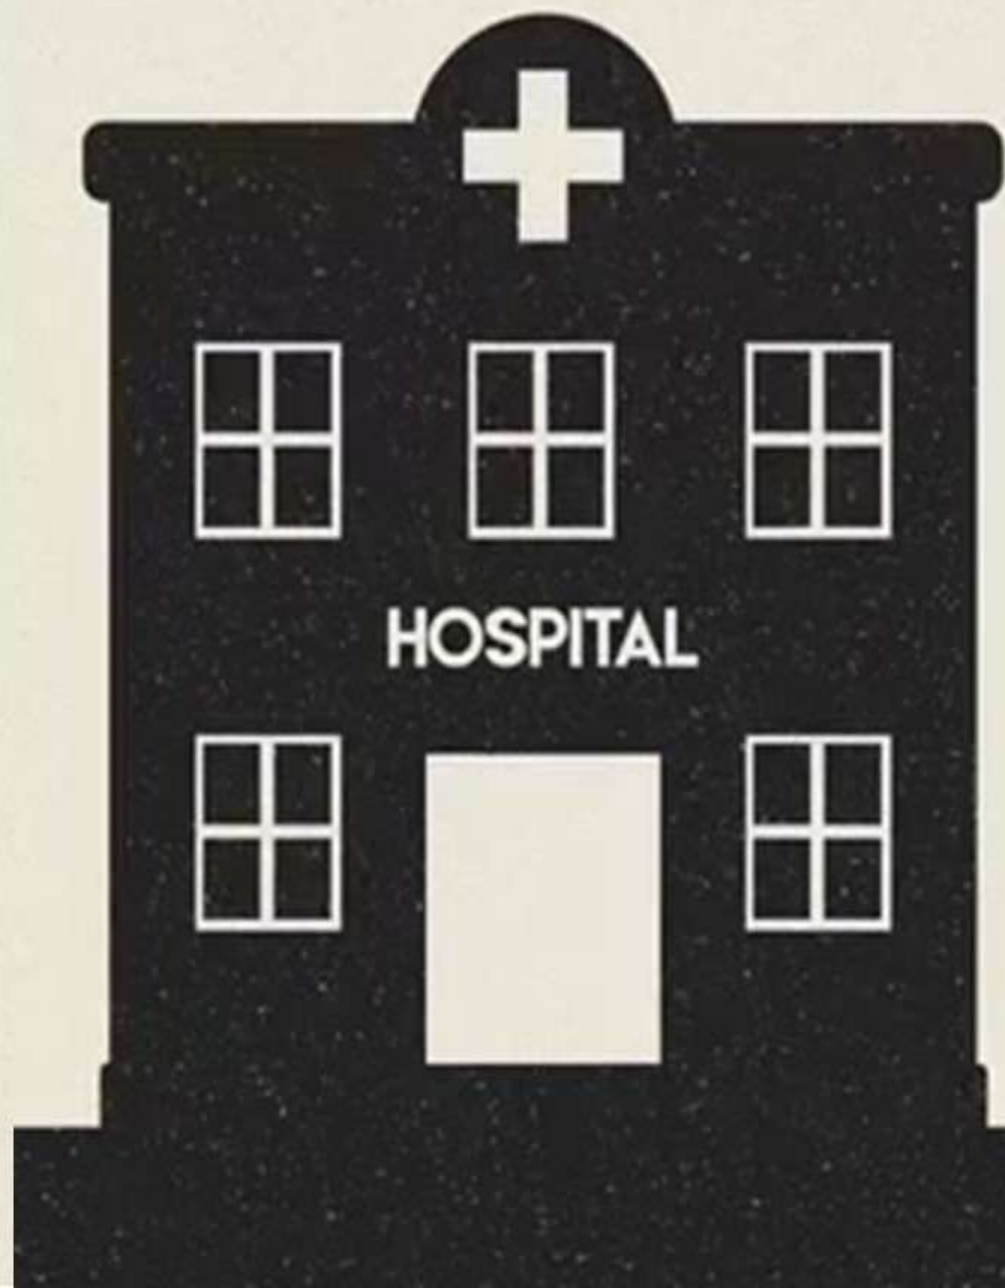

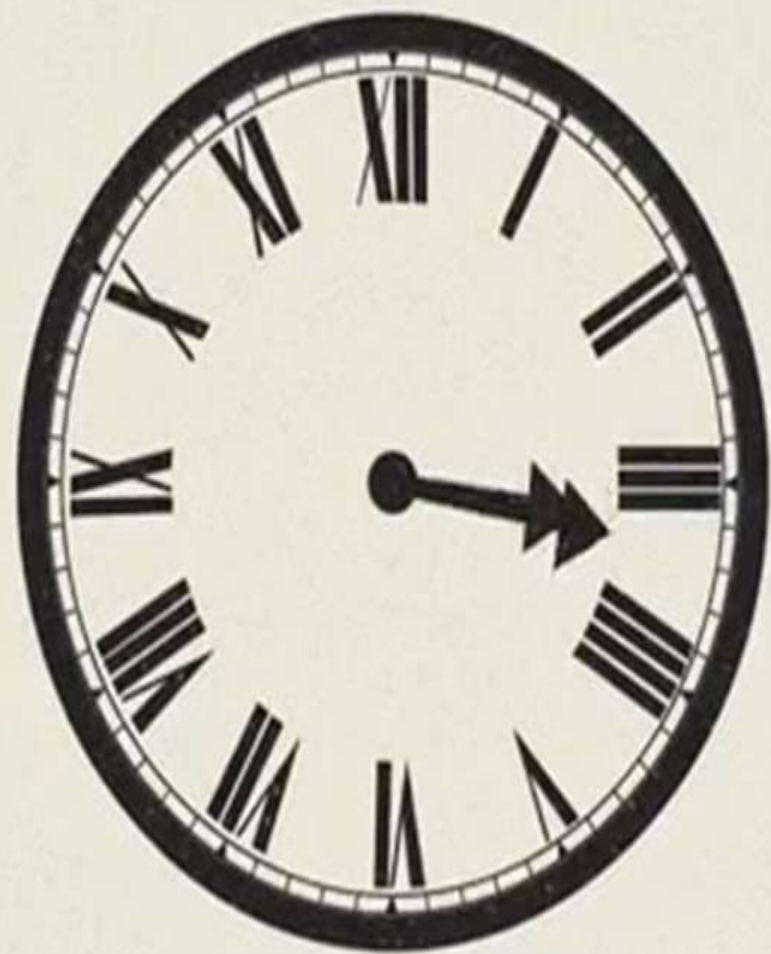

Various measures taken to date have failed to curtail the number of deaths.

Do you know that the first one hour after an emergency is extremely critical in saving a patient's life?

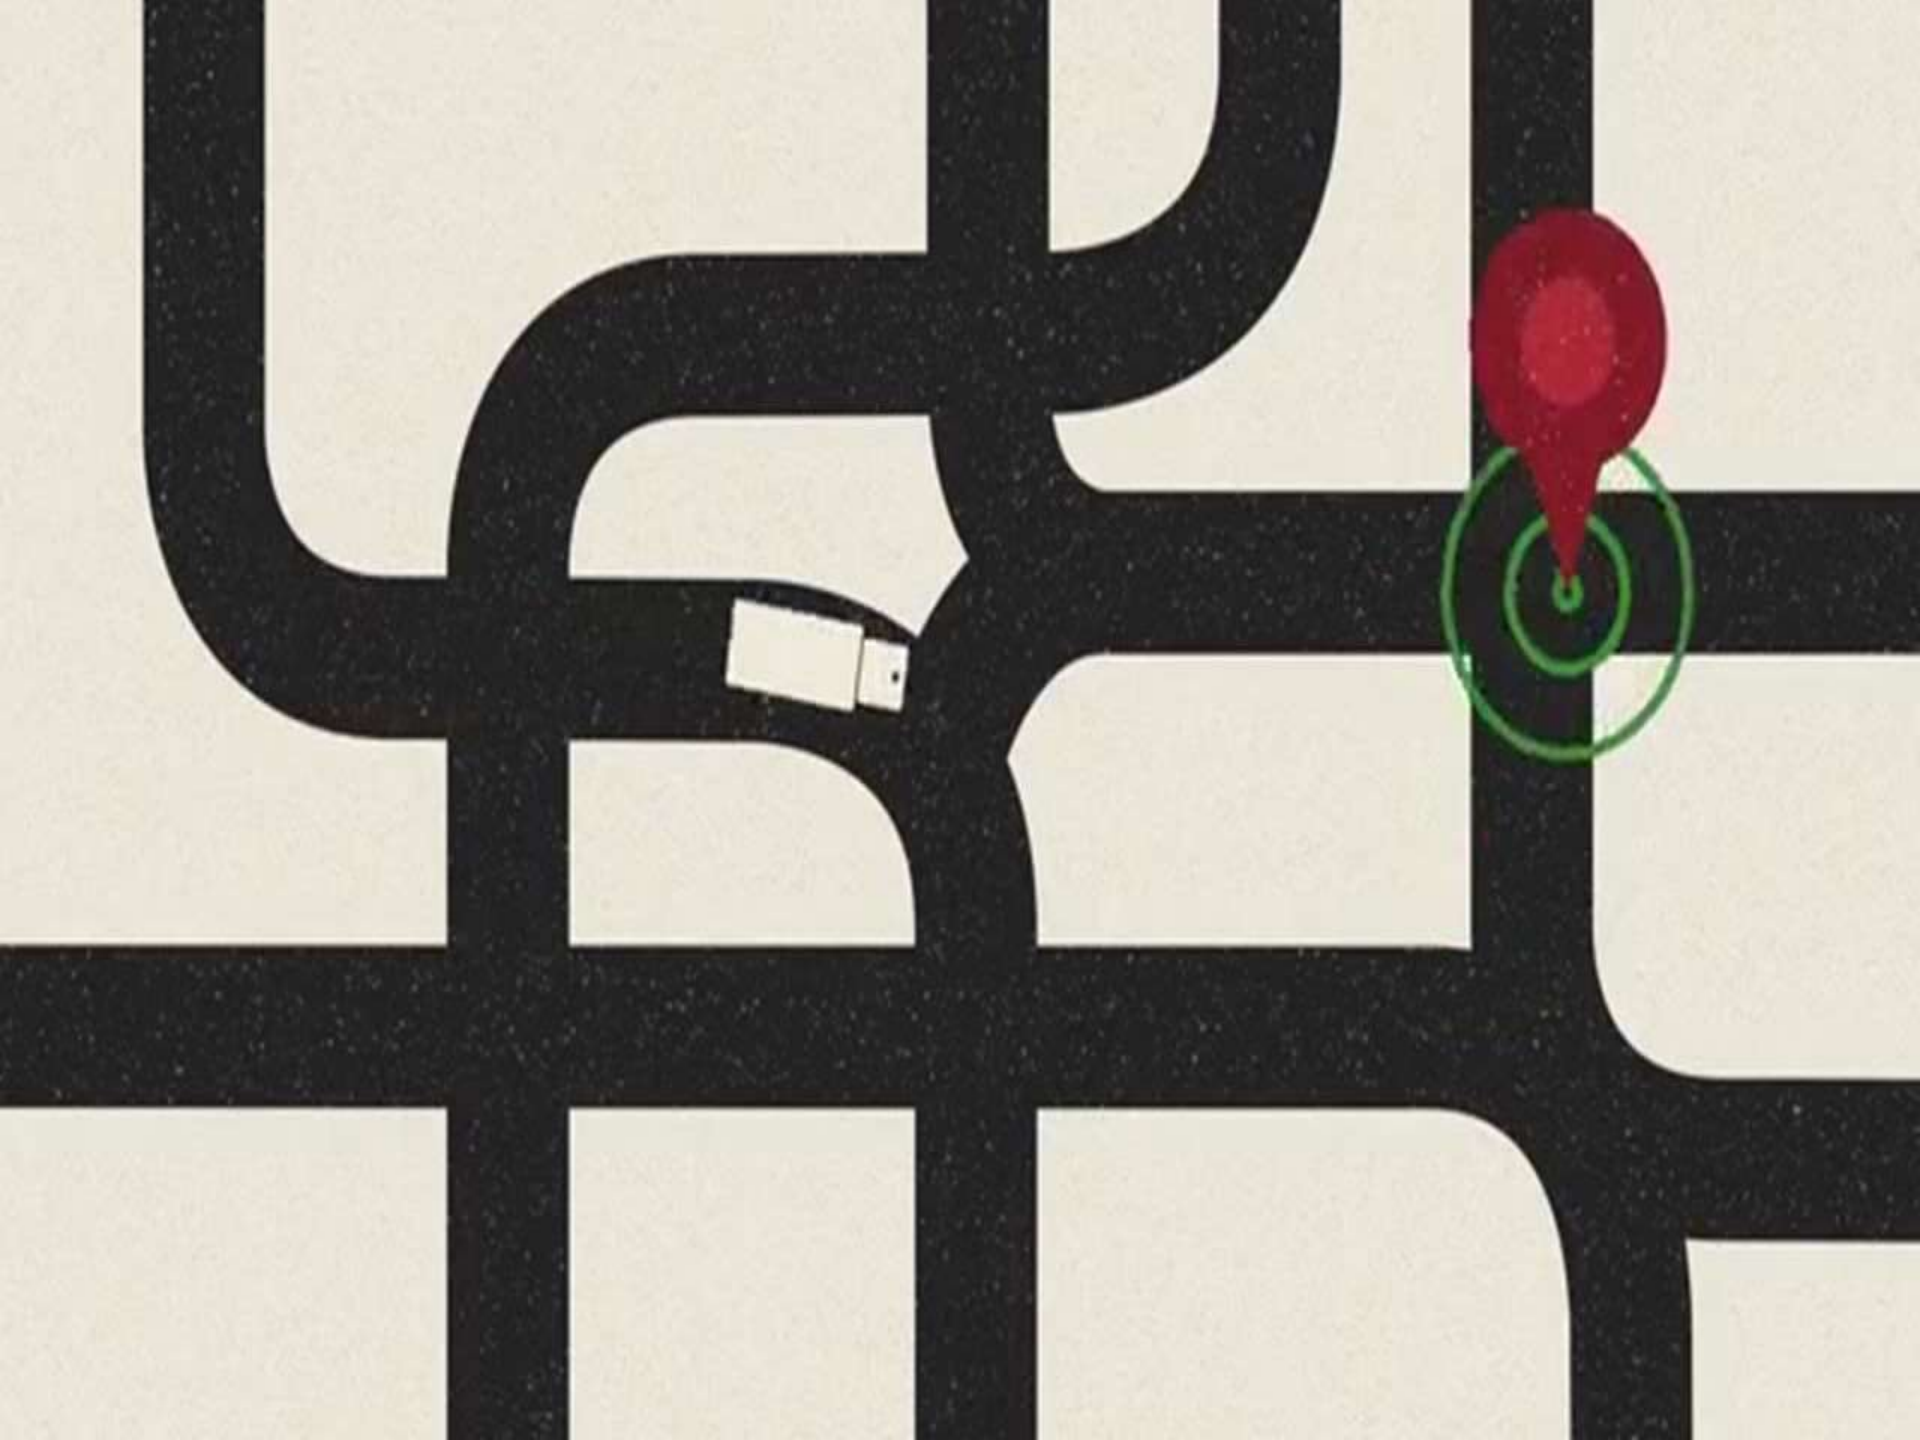

If the treatment begins later than one hour of an accident or a medical emergency, the chances of recovery falls down by almost 60%.

But unfortunately a lot of times the treatment starts almost two to three hours after the emergency

Do you know why?

Ambulance drivers find it difficult to reach the patient.
This is because of difficulty in locating the address or a miscommunicated location.

Countless lives are lost due to delay in treatment
